Important Notice to PULPWOOD EMPLOYERS

DO THIS NOW TO HOLD THE DRAFT STATUS OF YOUR WORKERS

THE new draft regulations have raised pulpwood production from "essential" to "critical", giving workers in this industry the highest deferment preference.

In order to protect the deferred status of your workers, make sure that you file the correct form—42A for workers between 26 and 29; 42B if they are between 30 and 38. A self-employed worker engaged chiefly in production of pulpwood must file the necessary certification himself.

IF IN DOUBT, CHECK WITH YOUR DRAFT BOARD

Be sure your Draft Board has the necessary information to insure proper classification. You are only making extra trouble for everybody if you wait till your Board reclassifies a worker as 1-A for lack of proper information or affidavits.

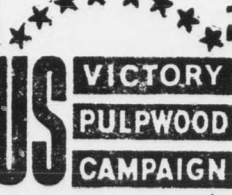

These new regulations apply equally to mills, contractors, dealers and the independent operator with a single helper.

Care of Cattle

Blacksburg, Feb. 7.—Scrub cows can be sly characters that feel dairy men into overlooking their yearly milk production. That's why careful records kept for each cow mean so much to the dairy farmer. There's no guess work in getting rid of the poor animals.

It's knowing what each of the cows in your herd does in the way of production that counts when it comes to improving a dairy herd, say dairy husbandmen for the Virginia Agricultural Extension Service. Careful records which tell the milk production, butterfat content, and feed history for each animal can be a lot to the dairyman. He can't let a cow go until he knows exactly what she's doing.

Records provided by the dairy and improvement associations in many Virginia counties are a big contribution to the state's dairy industry. Cows in dairy herd improved associations averaged 7,310 pounds of milk last year and 316 pounds of butterfat. The average was only 3,797 pounds of milk and approximately 170 pounds of butterfat. Association cows produced about double the amount for others.

Regardless of how good a dairyman you are and how carefully you milk your herd, some cows will deceive you. They may produce a fair quantity of fat free milk or may milk fairly well for three or four months after freshening. Only by being carefully marked and milked while your milk production is way down, they ought to be eliminated.

277,000 Japs Are Killed by Yanks

Foe Reported to Have Four Million Men in Field.

WASHINGTON — United States troops have killed at least 277,000 Japanese at a cost of 21,000 American fatalities, the office of war information revealed in a report which said that Japan already had 4,000,000 men in the field and could comfortably equip and train an additional 2,000,000. The ratio of Japanese to American fatalities was more than 13 to 1.

Japan is now near the bottom of the barrel in fighting reserves and can recruit aided millions from subject nations, OWI said in a detailed summation of the characteristics, equipment and organization of Japanese troops based on war department information.

In addition to the 277,000 Japanese killed in combat, 280,000 are in isolated island pockets, cut off from battle or rescue. Japanese dead since 1937, outbreak of the war with China, total about 850,000. OWI said that Japan now has about 2,000,000 troops in China.

The Japanese, the report said, are the best fighters "but despite their extensive training and confidence in the bayonet, they have not taken, as the most ambitious program Methodists has ever undertaken, the relief, rehabilitation and restoration of personal relationships, which have been destroyed and ravaged by the horror of this world war."

U. S. Oil Tankers Never

Failed in Delveries

NEW YORK.—"Not once did they fail," said Adm. Chester W. Nimitz in commending activities of the commercial tanker fleet engaged in transporting fuel for navy vessels in the Pacific.

The commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, made the commendation in a letter to Adm. E. S. Land, war shipping administrator, which was made public here by the American Merchant Marine Institute.

"Our requirements were numbered in millions of barrels of fuel to be transported thousands of miles to the scene of fleet operations," Nimitz said. "The volume involved demanded the utmost in operational management to assure a rate of delivery in keeping with our needs."

"Our success in keeping the fleet properly fueled was dependent upon the deliveries by these commercial ships. Not once did they fail."
